

Leroy and Eileen

No one is quite sure where the connection with the FBI began, but it is clear that it has influenced Leroy. Leroy is an extremely talented artist who is able to draw the FBI logo with nothing more than a few stencils which he cuts out himself, a pencil and crayons.

At an annual ISP meeting Leroy and his team discussed how to make his interest in the FBI a focal point within the upcoming year. Leroy's Supports Coordinator, Eileen Latzko, was able to make a contact with the Philadelphia FBI office requesting that Leroy be allowed to present one of his completed FBI logos. Leroy was thrilled and began framing his artwork! Eileen called the FBI office and a visit was arranged. On the day of the visit Leroy, his support staff and Eileen, arrived at the FBI building, and after making it through security they were met by FBI Agent Cliver who gave a tour of the offices and the conference room where FBI business is conducted on a daily basis. Agent Cliver presented Leroy with his official "FBI" hat and Leroy was given the opportunity to ask questions about the agency. Agent Cliver was extremely impressed with Leroy's artwork and said that it would be on display in the FBI office for all to see. Agent Cliver spent time with Leroy and showed him great appreciation for his contribution. It is inspiring to see a person's strengths and talents being honored by others.

The story of Leroy, and the hard work of his Supports Coordinator Eileen, is a wonderful example of how much fun it is to live an everyday life and a Supports Coordinator who makes that lifestyle happen.
